ABSTRACT

Based on data provided by postsecondary institutions, the Higher Education Services Corporation, and units of the State Education Department, this report shows trends in financial aid from state (New York), federal, institutional, and private sources for academic years 1985-86, 1986-87, and 1987-88. The first section provides an overview of all student aid funds on a statewide basis. It presents trends in total funds available to all students; examines trends in aid per student, using full-time equivalent students (FTE) as a measure of enrollment; and compares aid trends to changes in undergraduate expenses, other economic indicators and enrollment trends. The following section contains detailed tables showing funds and recipients for specific aid programs, with separate tables for pre- and post-baccalaureate students in each sector and at each type of institution within sectors. The appendices to the report contain a glossary of terms; a description of student aid data sources and data adjustments; and a list of institutions included in each sector and type category used in this report. Findings indicated that during this period total aid per FTE did not increase as rapidly as either tuition or total expenses in any sector except proprietary institutions. (DB)

MEMORANDUM TO CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICERS OF POSTSECONDARY INSTITUTIONS IN NEW YORK STATE

Subject: Report on Student Financial Aid

I am pleased to send you the seventh in a series of reports that contains the only complete accounting of student financial aid available at New York's degree-granting postsecondary institutions from federal, State, institutional and private sources. This edition covers academic years 1985-86 through 1987-88.

If your institution responded to the Department's student aid surveys during the past three years, you will find a special report enclosed. This report contains information provided on your survey responses, by the Higher Education Services Corporation and by units of the Department responsible for administering student aid programs. You can use this special report for comparative purposes and to verify the accuracy of the information in the Department's database.

I encourage you to share this report with others at your institution concerned with student financing. Additional copies are available upon request. Data revisions, as well as questions and comments on the report, should be directed to Thomas J. McCord, Chief of the Bureau of Postsecondary Research and Information Systems, Room 5B44, Cultural Education Center, Albany, NY 12230.

Your continued cooperation in supplying essential information about student aid is deeply appreciated.

Sincerely,

Donald J. Nolan

STATEWIDE OVERVIEW

This is the seventh in a series of reports which provides the only complete accounting of financial aid available to students at New York's degree-granting postsecondary institutions. Based on data provided by postsecondary institutions, by the Higher Education Services Corporation and units of the State Education Department responsible for administering financial aid programs, this report shows trends in financial aid from State, federal, institutional and private sources for academic years 1985-86, 1986-87 and 1987-88.

The first section of this report provides an overview of all student aid funds. The following section contains detailed tables showing funds and recipients for specific aid programs, with separate tables for pre- and post-baccalaureate students in each sector and at each type of institution within sectors. The appendices to this report contain a glossary of terms; a description of student aid data sources and data adjustments; and a list of institutions included in each sector and type category used in this report.

This overview presents trends in total funds available to all students; examines trends in aid per student, using full-time equivalent students (FTE) as a measure of enrollment; and compares aid trends to changes in undergraduate expenses, other economic indicators and enrollment trends.

Total Student Aid

The total amount of student aid in New York is determined by factors such as total enrollment, attendance and demographic characteristics of students, demonstrated financial need of aid applicants, federal and State aid program eligibility criteria and award sizes, students' and families' willingness to borrow, institutional budgetary decisions and private philanthropy.

The combination of these factors has resulted in relative stability in the total amount of aid available in the State during recent years although there have been changes in the composition and distribution of that aid.

-- Nearly $2.3 billion of student financial assistance from federal, State, institutional and private sources was awarded to students at degree-granting institutions in New York in 1987-88.

-- Between 1985-86 and 1987-88, the total amount of aid increased by slightly more than 1 percent. Grant aid increased 9 percent but loan funds decreased 10 percent.

-- Since 1984, loans have been the most prevalent form of aid in the nation. In contrast, loan funds at New York's degree-granting institutions have accounted for a smaller share of all aid since 1984-85.

-- Grants in New York are a growing share of all aid, up to 53.5 percent in 1987-88 from 48.4 percent in 1984-85.

-- In 1987-88, 51 percent of all aid came from programs sponsored by the federal government, nearly 23 percent came from institutional funds and nearly 18 percent came from State sponsored programs.

-- Between 1985-86 and 1987-88, aid from institutional sources increased nearly 20 percent, aid from State sources increased 10 percent and aid from federal sources declined over 9 percent.

-- In 1987-88, 77 percent of all aid came from four sources: the federally guaranteed loan programs (GSL, SLS and PLUS); the State's Tuition Assistance Program; institutionally funded grants from both restricted and unrestricted funds; and the federal Pell Grant program. Federal loan program dollars declined almost 12 percent and Pell Grant dollars declined 13 percent between 1985-86 and 1987-88.

-- In 1987-88, nearly 65 percent of all aid went to independent sector students. Another 31 percent went to students at the public university systems. The share of all aid going to independent sector students has been steadily increasing since 1984-85.

-- The $161-million statewide increase in grant aid between 1985-86 and 1987-88 was composed of $84-million in institutionally funded grants, of which $77-million came from independent sector institutions.

-- In 1987-88, almost 74 percent of all aid was awarded to undergraduates. Between 1985-86 and 1987-88, aid to undergraduates declined almost 3 percent while aid to post-baccalaureate students increased 14 percent.

Aid per Full-time Equivalent Student (FTE)

Aid per FTE is a useful measure of aid trends because it accounts for the impact of enrollment changes on aggregate amounts of aid. Between 1985-86 and 1987-88, the amount of aid per FTE increased 2.7 percent, more than twice the rate of increase in total aid.

-- The statewide amount of aid per FTE was $3,059 in 1987-88. Of this amount, $1,637 was grants and $1,113 was loans.

-- Aid per FTE decreased in the public sectors and increased in the independent and proprietary sectors between 1985-86 and 1986-87. The changes ranged from a decrease of 18 percent at City University to an increase of 17 percent at proprietary institutions.

-- Grants per FTE increased in every sector except at City University, where they declined more than 5 percent. Loans per FTE decreased in every sector except the independent sector.

-- Total aid per undergraduate FTE remained essentially stable between 1985-86 and 1987-88 but total aid per post-baccalaureate FTE increased 10 percent during the period.

Student Aid in Context

Changes in the amounts and types of financial aid available to postsecondary students can be interpreted by comparing them to changes in student expenses and in other economic indicators reflecting the public's capacity to pay for college.

-- Between 1985-86 and 1987-88, total aid per FTE did not increase as rapidly as either tuition or total expenses in any sector except at proprietary institutions, where aid increases exceeded cost increases.

-- Grant aid per FTE increased at least as rapidly as tuition in every sector except City University. Grant aid per FTE kept pace with total student expenses only at independent and proprietary institutions.

-- After adjusting for inflation, the total amount of aid and the amount of aid per FTE actually declined between 1985-86 and 1987-88.

-- Median family income in the Northeast region of the U.S. increased more rapidly than undergraduate expenses at City University. However, median family income did not keep pace with price increases in other sectors.

-- Personal after-tax income in New York, another measure of income of the population that is not always consistent with measures of family income, rose as rapidly as college expenses in every sector except the independent sector.

-- Despite growth in median family income and per capita disposable personal income, poverty rates remained high in New York. An estimated 20 of the population was living below poverty levels in New York City and 8 percent was living below poverty levels in the rest of the State in 1986.

-- Enrollment remained fairly stable during the 1985-86 through 1987-88 period. Undergraduate enrollment declined nearly 2 percent while post-baccalaureate enrollment increased nearly 3 percent.

APPENDIX A

GLOSSARY OF TERMS

Average Annual Undergraduate Tuition and Required Fees are computed from institutionally reported data in the Higher Education Data System for typical in-jurisdiction undergraduate charges. Averages are weighted by full-time undergraduate enrollment.

Average Annual Undergraduate Total College Costs include weighted average tuition and fees plus the other expenses allowed in student budgets prepared by financial aid administrators. For SUNY and the independent sector, on-campus housing is assumed and room and board is the unweighted average from the Higher Education Data System. All other costs for on-campus residents and all non-tuition costs for commuters at CUNY and proprietary institutions are considered to be equal to national averages reported by the College Scholarship Service.

College Work-Study Program wages include wages paid through the College-Work Study Program authorized by Title IV of the Higher Education Act, which provides for a federal contribution and requires an institutional matching contribution. The institutional contribution includes funds from institutions, the State's College Work-Study Reimbursement Program and non-institutional employers.

Consumer Price Index is from the U.S. Department of Commerce as adjusted by the Washington Office of the College Board to reflect academic year rather than calendar year periods. FTE is a full-time equivalent student, computed for the State as: full-time undergraduate enrollment + 1/3 part-time undergraduate enrollment + full-time graduate/professional enrollment + 4/10 part-time graduate/professional enrollment.

Grants Provided by External Gifts and Grants are awarded by organizations other than the reporting institution but known to the institution.

Grants to Native American Indians includes the Native American Grants administered by NYSED.

Guaranteed Federal Loans are need-based subsidized loans authorized by Title IV of the Federal Higher Education Act and either administered by the Higher Education Services Corporation or other guarantee agencies. Counted in this category are loans made through the Stafford Loan Program; Supplemental Loans to Students (SLS); and Parental Loans for Undergraduate Students (PLUS). Recipient counts for this item are actually loan counts. Loans administered by New York State are reported by HESC. Loans administered by other states include all non-HESC loans and are reported by institutions.

Institutional Grants includes grants and scholarships from institutional funds, as well as tuition and fee remissions, exemptions and waivers, except those available through formal policies regarding benefits for employees or their dependents. Restricted grants come from funds whose use is limited to student aid and includes SUSTA and CUSTA funds in the public sectors. Institutionally-funded loans includes all loans made with institutional funds, with the exception of short-term contingency or emergency loan funds.

Median Family Income is from the Current Population Survey (Series P-60) of the U.S. Department of Commerce. The Northeast Census region of the U.S. includes Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont, New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania. Median family income refers to the calendar year in which the academic year begins.

NYSED is the New York State Education Department.

NYSHESC is the New York State Higher Education Services Corporation.

Opportunity Program Grants are received by opportunity program students through the Higher Education Opportunity Program (HEOP) at independent institutions, the Educational Opportunity Program (EOP) at State University and the Search for Elevation and Education through Knowledge (SEEK) and College Discovery (CD) Programs at City University.

Other Governmental Grants includes grants and scholarships from other states, localities, vocational rehabilitation programs, ROTC and additional government grant programs not otherwise itemized in the NYSED's institutional student aid survey.

Other Loans includes loans from all other sources not itemized in the NYSED survey. Loans from the Supplemental Higher Education Loan Financing program (SHELF) appear to be included here although specific instructions were not provided on the survey instrument.

Other Student Aid is a residual category for aid not itemized in the NYSED survey.

Pell Grants are federal need-based entitlement grants provided through Title IV of the Higher Education Act.

Per Capita Personal Disposable Income is New York's aggregate after-tax income divided by the population. It is computed from special analyses prepared by the U.S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of Economic Analysis for the New York State Department of Economic Development. Income refers to the calendar year in which the academic year begins.

Perkins Loans are need-based loans awarded through the federal campus-based programs authorized by Title IV of the Higher Education Act.

Scholarships/Fellowships includes all State grants, scholarships and fellowships administered by the Higher Education Services Corporation except TAP and STAP. Recipient counts for this item are actually award counts. Improved reporting for 1987-88 results in a slight discontinuity between years.

Student Assistantships refers to all salaries, wages and stipends received as part of educationally-related activities, other than those reported in the wages category.

Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (SEOG) are need-based grants provided through Title IV of the Higher Education Act as part of the federal campus-based programs.

TAP includes both TAP (Tuition Assistance Program) and STAP (Supplemental Tuition Assistance Program) awards.

Wages from institutional restricted and unrestricted funds exclude those counted under student assistantships.

APPENDIX B

DATA SOURCES AND ADJUSTMENTS

The New York State Education Department's (NYSED) student aid data collection activities are part of the annual cycle of the Higher Education Data System. The student aid cycle begins each autumn when questionnaires, the NYSED-4.1 form and its supplements, are sent to all degree-granting institutions in the State to obtain information about student aid during the previous academic year. This institutional survey is the source of information on institutionally funded aid, privately funded aid and all the federal Title IV programs except the loan programs administered by the New York State Higher Education Services Corporation (NYSHESC). NYSHESC and units within NYSED that administer student aid programs supply data for all other programs.

Institutional survey forms are edited when they arrive at NYSED. During the editing process, corrections are made for arithmetic and classification errors and institutions are contacted for clarification.

In each data cycle, NYSHESC provides data for the two previous cycles so that NYSED can update its files to reflect the most current information for TAP and the federal guaranteed loan programs. In addition, institutional summary tables are mailed to chief executive officers and to financial aid administrators for verification with each annual report on student aid. To date, changes resulting from updating have been minor, but whenever inconsistencies appear in two reports in this series, the most recent report should be considered authoritative.

Response rates for the institutional survey have been high since its inception in 1981. For the 1987-88 data collected in the fall of 1988, 92.2 percent of the institutions responded. Nonrespondents typically have been seminaries, two-year schools in the independent sector and degree-granting proprietary schools, where the numbers of aid recipients are relatively small. Nonresponding institutions for 1987-88 are indicated in Appendix C. Estimation to adjust for institutional nonresponse reduces fluctuation in the statewide estimates of total funds derived from the data. Estimates are replaced with actual data in the next annual cycle whenever forms arrive late.

Item nonresponse has occurred over the years, especially for recipient counts for institutionally funded grants, loans and wages. Prior to 1986-87, treatment of recipient counts for institutionally funded programs was inconsistent. Recipient counts should be considered reliable for academic years 1986-87 and later.

Data adjustments had to be made for federal loan data at Cornell University. All loans were assigned to the Endowed Colleges and no loans were assigned to the Statutory Colleges. As a result, loan volume at the statutory colleges in the State is undercounted slightly and loan volume at independent colleges is overcounted slightly.

Some undercounting of aid funds and recipients in the State is unavoidable because only the aid known to postsecondary institutions and to agencies administering student aid programs can be accounted for in the NYSED surveys. Aid received from sources such as employers, the Veterans Administration, private associations and private lenders may not be known by survey respondents.

Whenever average awards appear in aggregate summary tables generated from the NYSED's student aid database, the averages are computed only from institutions reporting both funds and recipient counts. This means that multiplying the average award by the number of recipients may yield a product that is lower than the amount of total funds available.
